

Key Releases

Date	Event	Play
01-16-22	Philadelphia @ Tampa Bay	Tampa Bay
01-16-22	Pittsburgh @ Kansas City	Kansas City

January 15th, 2022

141/142	Score	Line	PR	GS Line	Avg. PR	Avg. OPR	SUR (H/A)	ATS (H/A)	O/U (H/A)	Pts. Diff. (H/A)	Avg. Ln. (H/A)
Las Vegas	26	49	6		7	6	5-4 / 5-3	4-5 / 4-4	5-4 / 3-5	-3.6 / -4.1	0 / +4.5
Cincinnati	29	-5.5	4(3)	-5	8	7	5-4 / 5-3	4-5 / 6-2	6-3 / 2-6	+1.1 / +9.3	-1.5 / +0.5

Cincinnati has been a great story this season, with QB Joe Burrow blossoming into one of the most productive QBs in the AFC, throwing for 4611 YP with a 34 TD-14 int. ratio. The Bengals really came out of nowhere to win the AFC North after finishing last 3 straight seasons and winning just 6 games SU in the last 2 years for HC Zac Taylor. Injuries to Baltimore QB Lamar Jackson, numerous injuries on both sides of the ball at Pittsburgh with a similar meltdown in Cleveland made the Bengals' 10-7 record good enough to win a division title for the first time since 2009. The flipside of this is that Cincinnati hasn't played a postseason game in 6 years and hasn't won or covered a playoff game since 1991, 21 seasons ago (George H.W. Bush was beginning what would be his final year in office and Madonna had the No. 1 single). That's the NFL's longest active streak without a playoff victory. Have respect for 2nd-year QB Burrow and sensational rookie WR Ja'Marr Chase (81 catches, 1455 yds., 13 TD), WR Tee Higgins (74 recs., 1091 yds.) and RB Joe Mixon, who had his best season (1205 YR, 13 TDs, 42 recs., 3 TDs), who have formed an exciting group of options for the Bengals. However, Burrow will be playing with at the very least a sore knee, and the Bengals aren't exactly the hottest team in the NFL entering the playoffs, as Cincy has a 5-5 record in its last 10 games, with losses at home to the Niners, Chargers and Browns at home in that streak, as well as a puzzling loss at the Jets on Halloween (trick or treat?...trick!). Conversely the Raiders enter the playoffs on a 4-game winning streak including road victories at Cleveland and Indianapolis. Raider RB Josh Jacobs has been a bull, and his 132 YR was a crucial contribution in the playoff-clinching victory over the Chargers. Derek Carr has thrown for 4804 yds. with 23 TDs, although a disappointing 14 interceptions, but has completed 70% of his passes over the past 5 games. Las Vegas TE Darren Waller returned from a 6-week layoff against the Chargers, and he's averaged 5 catches per game on the season and had 7 snags in the Raiders' 32-13 loss vs. Cincy on Nov. 21. That game was played when LV was in the midst of a slump and the result was a bit closer than the final, as the game was 16-13 Bengals with 5½ minutes remaining in the 4th Q. The Raiders did take a loss with the injury to Darius Philon vs. the Chargers, and his loss will be felt defending Mixon, who had 123 YR and 2 TDs in the Bengal victory at Allegiant Stadium in November, but the Raider defense put on solid pressure against Justin Herbert and has held its last 6 foes to an average of 294 ypg in total offense.

Play Las Vegas and the Over.

Last 3 Games			PF/PA	Pts. Diff.	Avg. PR	Avg. OPR	Avg. Ln.	SUR (H/A)	ATS (H/A)	O/U (H/A)
Las Vegas			25 / 21.7	+3.3	8	5	+4	2-0 / 1-0	2-0 / 1-0	1-1 / 0-1
Cincinnati			30.3 / 24.3	+6	6	4	+1	2-0 / 0-1	2-0 / 1-0	2-0 / 0-1
Results	Date	Opponent	Line	Total	Score	Results	Date	Opponent	Line	Total	Score
Las Vegas	01-09-22	LA Charge.	+3	49.5	35-32	Cincinnati	01-09-22	@ Cleveland	+6.5	39	16-21
	01-02-22	@ Indianapo.	+9.5	47	23-20		01-02-22	Kansas Ci.	+3.5	51	34-31
	12-26-21	Denver	PK	41.5	17-13		12-26-21	Baltimore	-7.5	43.5	41-21

Recent meetings
Date	Team	Score	Line	FD	RA/RV	PC/PA/I/PY	F/FL
11-21-21	Cincinnati	32	-2.5	23	38/159	20/29/0/129	3/1
	Las Vegas	13	51	13	18/72	19/27/1/206	2/1

143/144	Score	Line	PR	GS Line	Avg. PR	Avg. OPR	SUR (H/A)	ATS (H/A)	O/U (H/A)	Pts. Diff. (H/A)	Avg. Ln. (H/A)
New England	20	44	4		6	8	4-5 / 6-2	5-4 / 5-3	6-3 / 3-5	+11.8 / +6.6	-3.5 / -3
Buffalo	17	-4	0(3)	-7	1	8	6-3 / 5-3	5-3 / 5-3	3-6 / 5-3	+9.8 / +13.3	-11 / -5

It is wise to remember who is coaching before dismissing the Patriots as a likely one-and-done in the playoffs; long before anyone knew of Tom Brady, we remind that Bill Belichick won a couple of Super Bowl rings as the defensive coordinator with the Giants. And shrewd observers have always credited Belichick more than Bill Parcells for the second of those titles for his ability to keep a potent Buffalo offense contained in a still hard-to-fathom G-Men triumph at Tampa 32 years ago. Which suggests that Belichick's next challenge, winning a playoff game with a rookie QB, which hasn't happened in the NFL since Russell Wilson turned the trick with the Seahawks nine years ago, might not be as daunting as it seems. The key will be if game dynamics allow Belichick to protect Bama rookie Mac Jones, such as the first meeting at Orchard Park back on a windy and cold December 6 Monday night when Belichick ordered o.c. Josh McDaniels into a vanilla gameplan designed to keep Jones out of harm's way; mission accomplished, as despite attempting only three passes, New England survived 14-10 because it ran the ball effectively and Belichick let his defense win the game (the old Giants formula from a generation ago, if you will). Those dynamics didn't work as well in the rematch three weeks later at Gillette Stadium, as when playing from behind, Jones could only complete 14 of 32 tosses with 2 picks in a 33-21 revenge win for the Bills, who played their cleanest offensive game of the season with no punts or turnovers. We wonder, however, if HC Sean McDermott will be as gung-ho in the rubber match, after converting on a trio of fourth-down conversions in the first half that helped stake the Bills to a 17-7 halftime lead. Josh Allen also overcame Belichick's tricks to complete 30 of 47 and run for 64 yards, though we suspect that The Hoodie will be scheming to limit Allen's ability on broken plays, and won't be caught as off-guard against backup Buffalo receivers as he was in the second meeting. Granted, the Patriots lost altitude after the first Bills win and subsequent bye week, losing three of their last four, as the midseason ground-and-pound, defense-first formula wasn't working as well. Playing from behind, Jones also tossed a pair of picks in the losses to Indy and as aforementioned vs. Buffalo, and he was not much of a factor in either of the regular-season games vs. the Bills. But that's the plan; Belichick would rather Jones not carry the baton, acting as lower-risk game manager instead, and leaning on his infantry (Damien Harris in particular) that gouged out nearly 400 YR and better than 5 ypc across the pair of December meetings vs. Buffalo. Meanwhile, this year's Bills were even more reliant on Allen (who also rushed for 763 yards) than last season, and worth noting that Buffalo was a nervous and narrow winner in the wild card round last January vs. the underdog Colts. And if New England proved it could win in inclement weather on this field last month, conditions figure to be no better in the middle of winter on Jan. 15 in the Niagara frontier, at a stadium in which the Patriots have won and covered 7 of their last 8 visits. This entire scenario sets up for another Belichick special...which we have witnessed before. Play New England and the Under.

Last 3 Games		PF/PA		Pts. Diff.	Avg. PR	Avg. OPR	Avg. Ln.	SUR (H/A)	ATS (H/A)	O/U (H/A)
New England		31.7 / 25.3		+6.3	4	8	-7.5	1-1 / 0-1	1-1 / 0-1	2-0 / 1-0
Buffalo		29.7 / 15.3		+14.3	0	9	-10	2-0 / 1-0	1-0 / 1-0	0-2 / 1-0
Results	Date	Opponent	Line	Total	Score	Results	Date	Opponent	Line	Total	Score
New England	01-09-22	@ Miami	-5.5	41	24-33	Buffalo	01-09-22	NY Jets	-15.5	43	27-10
	01-02-22	Jacksonvi.	-17.5	42	50-10		01-02-22	Atlanta	-14	46.5	29-15
	12-26-21	Buffalo	PK	43.5	21-33		12-26-21	@ New Engla.	PK	43.5	33-21

Recent meetings
Date	Team	Score	Line	FD	RA/RV	PC/PA/I/PY	F/FL
12-26-21	Buffalo	33	0	28	28/114	30/47/0/314	0/0
	New England	21	43.5	20	27/149	14/32/2/139	1/0
12-06-21	New England	14	40	11	46/222	2/3/0/19	2/1
	Buffalo	10	-2.5	16	25/99	15/30/0/131	1/1
12-28-20	Buffalo	38	-7	31	31/130	30/40/0/344	1/0
	New England	9	47	11	24/145	9/21/0/56	0/0
11-01-20	New England	21	41	20	34/188	15/25/0/174	1/1
	Buffalo	24	-4.5	22	38/190	11/18/1/154	0/0

January 16th, 2022

145/146	Score	Line	PR	GS Line	Avg. PR	Avg. OPR	SUR (H/A)	ATS (H/A)	O/U (H/A)	Pts. Diff. (H/A)	Avg. Ln. (H/A)
Philadelphia	20	46.5	6		8	7	3-5 / 6-3	3-4 / 5-4	6-2 / 4-5	-0.9 / +7.3	0 / -1
Tampa Bay	37	-8	2(2)		2	9	7-1 / 6-3	6-2 / 3-6	5-3 / 4-5	+16.1 / +3.2	-10 / -7

Never mind the callers to Angelo Cataldi's and Ike Reese's shows on WIP who might think the Eagles are a match for Vladimir Putin and the Russian military in the Ukraine, with oldtimers still holding an extra grudge against the Bucs for beating a Dick Vermeil-coached Philly in the 1979 playoffs (they don't forget in the Delaware Valley!). Though in truth, while the Birds were a surprise playoff entrant in the maiden run for young HC Nick Sirianni, they are probably not much more than this season's version of the 2020 Bears, who squeezed into the expanded playoff field a year ago with an 8-8 mark (the expanded 2021 schedule allowed for one more game, so Philly enters at 9-8, but the comparison still applies)...and some team had to become the number seven seed. True, you can only play the teams in front of you, but scant evidence that the Eagles belong in this company after losing all of their games vs. winning teams this season and taking full advantage of a soft schedule stretch late in the season that featured four games with a severely-depleted Washington and the sad-sack G-Men and J-Men of New York once the calendar hit December, and also four wins this season vs. teams employing backup QBs. One of those losses vs. above-.500 sides came back on Oct. 14 at the Linc when the Birds were on the short end of a deceiving 28-22 scoreline vs. the Bucs, who had moved to a 28-7 lead before allowing Philly to get within earshot late. To Sirianni's credit, he wisely began to lean on his infantry almost immediately thereafter, which worked just fine for second-year QB Jalen Hurts, often looking like he was back at Oklahoma or Alabama in the process, as the Birds became one of the NFL's best rushing teams the second half of the season. But an Army/Air Force approach does not figure to have much of a shelf life in the postseason, and this is a troubling matchup for a Birds secondary that allowed an NFL-high 69.4% completions and now facing the GOAT himself, as even with a sore thumb in the mid-October game, Tom Brady still completed 34 of 42 throws. And even with Chris Godwin hurt and Antonio Brown in exile, Brady still has ample targets, with Mike Evans (77 catches in 2-21) a reliable threat along with a versatile collection of TEs led by the familiar Gronk, and the OL is relatively healthy entering the postseason. There's a good chance RB Leonard Fournette (hamstring) returns to active duty this weekend, too. Aside from that puzzling Dec. 19 shutout loss to the Saints, Tampa Bay also scored 30 or more in its seven other games at home this season. Besides, this is about as far as a ride can go for a team like Philly, while the Bucs don't figure to stumble at this hurdle in their quest for back-to-backs with Brady.

Play Tampa Bay and the Over.

Last 3 Games			PF/PA		Pts. Diff.	Avg. PR	Avg. OPR	Avg. Ln.	SUR (H/A)	ATS (H/A)	O/U (H/A)
Philadelphia			26.7 / 25.7		+1	6	10	-3.5	1-1 / 1-0	1-1 / 0-1	2-0 / 0-1
Tampa Bay			33.7 / 15.7		+18	3	14	-12	1-0 / 2-0	1-0 / 1-1	1-0 / 1-1
Results	Date	Opponent	Line	Total	Score	Results	Date	Opponent	Line	Total	Score
Philadelphia	01-08-22	Dallas	+6	45.5	26-51	Tampa Bay	01-09-22	Carolina	-11	43	41-17
	01-02-22	@ Washington	-6	45	20-16		01-02-22	@ NY Jets	-14.5	48	28-24
	12-26-21	NY Giants	-11	41	34-10		12-26-21	@ Carolina	-10.5	44	32-6

Recent meetings
Date	Team	Score	Line	FD	RA/RV	PC/PA/I/PY	F/FL
10-14-21	Tampa Bay	28	-7	27	31/102	34/42/1/297	0/0
	Philadelphia	22	53	16	19/100	12/26/1/113	0/0

147/148	Score	Line	PR	GS Line	Avg. PR	Avg. OPR	SUR (H/A)	ATS (H/A)	O/U (H/A)	Pts. Diff. (H/A)	Avg. Ln. (H/A)
San Francisco	27	50.5	2		5	7	4-4 / 6-3	4-4 / 5-4	4-4 / 4-5	+3.5 / +3.8	-4.5 / -2.5
Dallas	23	-3	2(3)	-3	4	7	5-3 / 7-2	5-3 / 8-1	5-3 / 3-6	+14.3 / +6.4	-7 / -2

Plenty of playoff history here, back to the early post-merger days when these teams met for three consecutive years (1970-71-72) in the postseason, to "The Catch" by Dwight Clark in the '81 NFC title game, and three more NFC title game renewals in the 90s. We're hardly convinced either of these sides are up to past levels of excellence, and remain especially skeptical about the Cowboys and their somewhat-deceiving stat lines that have been padded by recent 50+ point explosions vs. a depleted Washington and a geared-down Philly in last Saturday's regular-season finale. Dak Prescott rolled up his customary big numbers in those games (combined 9 TD passes), but we suspect any deep Dallas run in the playoffs will be more due to a defense that improved markedly this season under first-year coordinator Dan Quinn, who once held the same role for Pete Carroll's Seahawks Super Bowl winner before his stint as the HC of the Falcons. Moreover, Quinn's platoon ranked second in defensive efficiency this season. It's probably worth noting, however, that across the second half of the campaign, the Cowboys lost to all three playoff foes (the Chiefs, Raiders, and Cardinals) they faced, fueling speculation that second-year HC Mike McCarthy might not have all that much rope left with Jerry Jones, who didn't move out Jason Garrett two years for early playoff flameouts. The Niners showed us more last week against the Rams than we have seen all season from Dallas, as SF was looking deep into the abyss and playoff elimination when down 17-3 at half, then moving 88 yards with no timeouts to force OT in the last 1:30 of regulation before finally prevailing in extra time. Jimmy G's sore thumb didn't look so bad on the tying TD drive, and the Niners were able to re-establish their preferred infantry (rookie Elijah Mitchell in particular) in the second half to put the Rams on their heels, while any time Deebo Samuel touches the ball it feels like a big play is about to ensue. Moreover, SF's pass rush looked much as it did when fueling the Super Bowl run two years ago, constantly in Matthew Stafford's face as the game progressed while recording 5 sacks and various hurries. Beating the Rams twice, plus the Bengals on the road, in a second-half-of-the-season turnaround that saw Kyle Shanahan's men win 7 of 9 rates more impressive by us than whatever Dallas did against mostly-marginal opposition late in the campaign. And while the roster isn't completely the same as two years ago, the Niners still have a recent Super Bowl pedigree...something Dallas hasn't had in a generation.

Play San Francisco.

Last 3 Games			PF/PA		Pts. Diff.	Avg. PR	Avg. OPR	Avg. Ln.	SUR (H/A)	ATS (H/A)	O/U (H/A)
San Francisco			22.3 / 17		+5.3	3	8	-5	1-0 / 1-1	1-0 / 1-1	0-1 / 1-1
Dallas			43 / 21.7		+21.3	2	6	-7.5	1-1 / 1-0	1-1 / 1-0	1-1 / 1-0
Results	Date	Opponent	Line	Total	Score	Results	Date	Opponent	Line	Total	Score
San Francisco	01-09-22	@ LA Rams	+3	46	27-24	Dallas	01-08-22	@ Philadelp.	-6	45.5	51-26
	01-02-22	Houston	-14	44	23-7		01-02-22	Arizona	-6.5	53	22-25
	12-23-21	@ Tennessee	-3.5	45	17-20		12-26-21	Washington	-10	46	56-14

Recent meetings
Date	Team	Score	Line	FD	RA/RV	PC/PA/I/PY	F/FL
12-20-20	San Francisco	33	-4	28	36/150	26/43/2/308	2/2
	Dallas	41	45.5	28	22/87	20/34/0/204	0/0

149/150	Score	Line	PR	GS Line	Avg. PR	Avg. OPR	SUR (H/A)	ATS (H/A)	O/U (H/A)	Pts. Diff. (H/A)	Avg. Ln. (H/A)
Pittsburgh	13	46.5	8		6	7	6-2 / 3-5	4-5 / 4-4	2-6 / 4-4	+1 / -8	-2 / +5.5
Kansas City	32	-12.5	1(2)	-9	1	6	7-2 / 5-3	4-5 / 4-4	4-5 / 6-2	+8.6 / +4.9	-7 / -5.5

To say Ben Roethlisberger and the Steelers are lucky to be here is an understatement. Given a 1 in 10 chance at the beginning of the NFL slate this week, all the dominoes fell just right. Those dominoes included a roughly 1-in-30 shot of 14½-point underdog Jacksonville upsetting Indianapolis with a playoff berth on the line for the Colts, Pitt upsetting the Ravens in OT at Baltimore and San Diego HC Brandon Staley calling timeout to prevent Las Vegas from running out the clock in overtime which would've ended the game in a 32-32 tie, sending both the Chargers and Raiders to the playoffs and Mike Tomlin's bunch on vacation. The Raiders were thus forced to change their minds and take a field goal as time ran out, sending San Diego home and extending Big Ben's career one more game. This might be a case of be careful what to wish for, because the Steelers have drawn the hottest team in the AFC in Kansas City, winners of 9 of the last 10. One of those Chiefs' victories was a 36-10 drubbing administered to the Steelers in Arrowhead Stadium, when KC dominated the Steelers, running out to a 30-0 lead midway through the 3rd Q. Chief QB Patrick Mahomes (4839 YP, 37-13 ratio this season) completed 23 of 30 passes for 258 yds. with 3 TDs and no interceptions that day, while HC Andy Reid's defense held Pittsburgh to just 303 total yards. Mahomes has plenty of weapons despite a few injuries (RB Clyde Edwards-Helaire questionable with a shoulder injury and last played vs. the Steelers; WR Tyreek Hill iffy with a heel injury) with Mecole Hardman making 59 catches this season and Byron Pringle had 42, while Edwards-Helaire (517 YR 4 TDs) was backed by Darrel Williams and Derick Gore, who combined for 814 YR and 8 TDs). The real story in the Kansas City surge has been the play of the Chief defense, which has allowed just 10 ppg last 6 at home, making it easy for Mahomes and the offense to roll to a string of victories at Arrowhead, with covers in the last 4 of those. Pittsburgh was hanging on the edge most of the season for a reason, and the Steelers gave up 33.4 ppg in their last 5 on the road and to be fair might not be here at all if not for the absence of Raven QB Lamar Jackson. Kansas City has had an extra day of rest and preparation as well, and while the Roethlisberger storyline has a feel-good aspect, it's not the vintage Big Ben these days. Would much rather lay the lumber in this one. Play Kansas City.

Last 3 Games			PF/PA	Pts. Diff.	Avg. PR	Avg. OPR	Avg. Ln.	SUR (H/A)	ATS (H/A)	O/U (H/A)
Pittsburgh			17.3 / 21	-3.7	9	4	+5	1-0 / 1-1	1-0 / 1-1	0-1 / 1-1
Kansas City			31.7 / 22.7	+9	0	8	-8.5	1-0 / 1-1	1-0 / 0-2	1-0 / 2-0

Results	Date	Opponent	Line	Total	Score	Results	Date	Opponent	Line	Total	Score
Pittsburgh	01-09-22	@ Baltimore	+3	41	16-13	Kansas City	01-08-22	@ Denver	-11.5	45	28-24
	01-03-22	Cleveland	+2	43	26-14		01-02-22	@ Cincinnati	-3.5	51	31-34
	12-26-21	@ Kansas Ci.	+10	44.5	10-36		12-26-21	Pittsburgh	-10	44.5	36-10

Recent meetings
Date	Team	Score	Line	FD	RA/RV	PC/PA/1/PY	F/FL
12-26-21	Pittsburgh	10	44.5	20	25/130	28/43/1/173	2/2
	Kansas City	36	-10	25	35/127	23/30/0/254	3/0

January 17th, 2022

151/152	Score	Line	PR	GS Line	Avg. PR	Avg. OPR	SUR (H/A)	ATS (H/A)	O/U (H/A)	Pts. Diff. (H/A)	Avg. Ln. (H/A)
Arizona	26	49.5	4		5	6	3-5 / 8-1	2-6 / 8-1	4-4 / 4-5	-1.8 / +10.8	-7 / -0
LA Rams	23	-4	2(2)		3	7	5-3 / 7-2	4-4 / 4-5	4-4 / 5-3	+5.9 / +4.6	-7.5 / -5

Can't help but get the feeling that the Cards have the Rams just where they want them...in Inglewood, and not at home in Glendale. In fact, Arizona might rather play on the Moon than as a host these days after losing five in row to close the regular season in the desert, and eventually blowing a chance to steal the NFC West when bowing to Russell Wilson and the Seahawks at State Farm Stadium last Sunday. What good would that have, done, however, if the Big Red can't win at home, where visiting fans and a variety of snowbirds who spend their winters in the Valley of the Sun often show up in droves to cheer for the visiting teams? It's worth noting that no NFL entry ever won more road games (eight, though having the extra 17th game this season, and ninth away from home, helped that metric) in a regular season than Arizona. So, while evidence suggests the Cards are probably better off playing away from home, there still is the matter of losses in four of the last five overall as the the Big Red once again lost altitude in the second half of the season, as has been their pattern under Kliff Kingsbury. Kyler Murray's dynamism has waned as the campaigns have progressed the past few seasons, too, slowdowns often the result of injuries (last year it was a shoulder; this year, a midseason ankle injury that kept him out three weeks). The absence of preferred target DeAndre Hopkins (who could return this week), out since Week 14, hasn't helped, though whatever the reasons, Arizona's scoring output dropped more than a full TD per game after midseason (29.9 ppg first eight games, 21.6 ppg last nine). Meanwhile, there is a chance vet DE J.J. Watt (shoulder) could return for wild card weekend, too; remember, the Cards were 7-0 in games with Watt this season. We are hardly sure the Rams are a better alternative at the moment, as despite some prodigious numbers this season (including 4886 YP and 41 TDs), some of Matthew Stafford's old bad habits from Detroit days resurfaced in the second half of the season; since the start of Week Nine, Stafford's 11 interceptions are second most in the league, with four debilitating pick-sixes in that stretch. And while playing the past twelve seasons in Detroit had something to do with it, Stafford has also yet to win an NFL playoff game. Moreover, some of the pass-rush pressure LA can bring with Aaron Donald up the middle with Von Miller and Leonard Floyd from the edges can be partly diffused by Murray, who has recovered enough from his October ankle problems to regain much of his mobility that also burned the Rams for 100 rush yards (much of that on scrambles) in the two earlier clashes this term. Fittingly, both road teams also won in the regular-season meetings, and aside from the Rams, the Cards also won on the road vs. other playoff sides like the Titans, Cowboys, and 49ers. So, as noted earlier, maybe Arizona has LA right where it wants it (away from Glendale) on Monday night.

Play Arizona.

Last 3 Games			PF/PA	Pts. Diff.	Avg. PR	Avg. OPR	Avg. Ln.	SUR (H/A)	ATS (H/A)	O/U (H/A)
Arizona			23.7 / 27.3	-3.7	4	4	-0.5	0-2 / 1-0	0-2 / 1-0	1-1 / 0-1
LA Rams			24.7 / 23	+1.7	2	5	-4.5	0-1 / 2-0	0-1 / 1-1	1-0 / 1-1

Results	Date	Opponent	Line	Total	Score	Results	Date	Opponent	Line	Total	Score
Arizona	01-09-22	Seattle	-5.5	48.5	30-38	LA Rams	01-09-22	San Franc.	-3	46	24-27
	01-02-22	@ Dallas	+6.5	53	25-22		01-02-22	@ Baltimore	-7.5	47.5	20-19
	12-25-21	Indianapo.	-3	48	16-22		12-26-21	@ Minnesota	-3.5	48.5	30-23

Recent meetings
Date	Team	Score	Line	FD	RA/RV	PC/PA/1/PY	F/FL
12-13-21	LA Rams	30	51	18	21/89	23/30/0/267	1/0
	Arizona	23	-3	22	22/103	32/49/2/344	1/0
10-03-21	Arizona	37	54	27	40/216	24/32/0/249	1/0
	LA Rams	20	-4	24	23/121	26/41/1/280	1/1
01-03-21	Arizona	7	42	15	18/48	19/27/1/192	1/0
	LA Rams	18	-1	21	30/110	22/38/1/231	1/1
12-06-20	LA Rams	38	-2.5	30	31/119	37/47/0/351	1/1
	Arizona	28	49	18	21/92	21/39/1/173	2/1

KEY
Score	The predicted score for an event
PR	The team's Power Rating
GS Line	The GoldSheet line, calculated using each team's Power Rating.
Avg. PR	The average Power Rating of a team over the course of the season.
Avg. OPR	The average of a team's opponent Power Rating on the day that they played.
SUR (H/A)	The team's straight-up-record, both at home and on the road.
ATS (H/A)	The team's record against-the-spread.
O/U (H/A)	The team's over-under record.
Pts. Diff. (H/A)	The team's +/- point differential.
Avg. Ln. (H/A)	The average line the team has had over the course of the season.
PF/PA	The average points a team has scored and allowed.
FD	The total number of first downs.
RA/RV	The number of rushing attempts and yards.
PC/PA/I/PY	The number of passing completions, attempts, interceptions and yards.
RA/RV	The number of fumbles and fumbles lost.

COPYRIGHT 2021 © THE GOLD SHEET. ALL RIGHT RESERVED.